Protect Against Financial Abuse

Older adults are increasingly targeted by scammers, especially though impersonation calls, fake emergencies, and fraudulent requests for money.

Help protect yourself and loved ones:

- Be cautious of urgent or emotional requests for money
- Never share account information or verification codes
- Maintain regular communication with elderly family members to spot and question suspicious financial requests

If a request doesn't feel right, hang up and contact CCU right away.

We're here to help you keep your money safe.
